

ABSTRACT

According to one embodiment, a computer system is disclosed. The computer system includes a compressor/decompressor (codec), and an integrity agent. The integrity agent verifies the authenticity of one or more functions utilized by the codec to assist in the decompression of received content.